Buenos Aires Ecological Reserve

The regenerative power of nature continues to inspire NLI's passion for restoring biodiversity to hundreds of patches of dirt to support the thriving of human life. A dramatic example is the Buenos Aires Ecological Reserve, worked on by NLI cofounders, Robin Moore and Nilda Cosco, in the early 1990s... learn more

Ross Park Nature Play and Exploration Trail

Ross Park Nature Play and Exploration Trail Master Plan, a new, innovative NLI project in Binghamton, NY (location of SUNY campus), kicked off last November with an in-person stakeholder workshop led by NLI's Robin Moore and Brandon Dupree. Ross Park Zoo, the project sponsor, occupies part of the original 90 acres... learn more

NLI's Early Childhood Professional Development Program on a roll!

In 2022, NLI offered five Early Childhood Outdoor Learning Environments courses to designers and educators. The 170+ participants left energized and ready to share... learn more

Need and Interest in Nature Prescriptions to Protect Cardiovascular and Mental Health

"Nature prescriptions" are increasingly being adopted by health sectors as an adjunct to standard care to attend to health and social needs. We investigated levels of need and interest in nature... learn more
